

Luminans

It reduces redness and hypersensitivity, moisturises and heals surface skin imperfections, restores a uniform colour to facial skin and protects against the harmful effect of sunrays.

BIOSEQUENTIELLE ACTION

The coumarin found in melilot relaxes stressed skin and diminishes hypersensitivity; the polyphenols found in grape strengthen capillaries and combat free-radicals; the esculoside found in horse chestnut diminishes redness and the starch found in marshmallow moisturises and refreshes the skin. A synergy of 3 non-allergenic photo-protective filters defend the skin against UVA-UVB rays.

ENERGETIC ACTION

Its Yin energy polarity compensates for excessive Yang energy that causes swelling, redness and heat accumulation. By restoring balance to energy circulation, it has a powerful anti-ageing effect on the skin which noticeably revitalises the skin, right after the first applications.

APPLICATION

Apply on the face, neck and bosom, in the evening and/or morning, by performing a light Biosel massage. Do not rinse.

RESULTS

Stress and hypersensitivity diminish. Facial, neck and bosom redness fade away.

BIOSEQUENTIELLE FORMULA

Flower	Melilot	It reduces the sensitivity and fragility of capillaries and diminishes rosacea while facilitating diuresis and the draining of fluid retention. It also has extraordinary anti-spasmodic properties that relax stressed skin and diminish hypersensitivity.
Leaf	Leaf and Fruit: Grape	Being rich in polyphenols which have anti-inflammatory properties, they are true capillary healers. Their revitalising action combats the premature ageing of skin tissue.
Bark	Horse Chestnut	The bark is used for its astringent and toning properties which improve the elasticity of capillaries. It contains esculoside, an active principle that decongests rosacea and calibrates Yang energy flows.
Root	Marshmallow	Its anti-inflammatory properties are recommended for the treatment of dermatosis and skin irritation. It also reinforces the skin's defences and refreshes it.
